Mere Boys Off Battlefronts Join Veterans Of Other Wars In Army Hospitals

Teen Aged Youths Coming Into San Fernando Facility From Far Off Places

By JACK MITCHELL

Yes, they're already infiltrating this and various other hospitals throughout the Nation. I hardly know how to begin my "point of attack" in this, the most tragic story I have ever reported.

CASUALTIES—We have five newly enrolled youngsters here. One of them (I am not permitted to mention his name) is a little over 17 years old. Yet he took part in "The Battle of Midway"—he cannot name his ship, but in the Fleet in which he served was The Grand Old Lady of the Seas—the Lexington! He described the battle to me—But lest I hurt him and my own reportorial integrity, I can only say that his lungs were scorched by the constant firing of the guns aboard his ship—American guns that did not hesitate to answer shot for shot, but gave the enemy so much more, that his German taught strategy resulted in his ignominious failure and retreat at "The Battle of Midway."

ANOTHER—This youngster is a soldier. He was badly injured in that glorious fight of the U.S. ARMY—That glorious and wonderful feat of arms in which for three months the U. S. Army held, suffered, died and yet conquered. For in their apparent defeat, 36,000 men held back an over-whelming enemy. That, my friends, was the BATTLE OF BATAAN!

YET ANOTHER—This man I am permitted to name. He is Chief Machinists Mate William Sandberg, U.S.N. He was aboard the U.S. Naval Tugboat "The Acushnet." The "Acushnet" has been mentioned many times in press dispatches. She is still prowling the Atlantic in search of Hitler's "Rattle-snakes of the Seas." Sandberg was under fire many times. Reticent, his story is hard to get. Suffice it to say that the little U.S. Naval ship

School To Observe Constitution Day Next Thursday

Gerald Smith, school superintendent is again asking new students to register today and tomorrow so that opening day activities at the grammar school may not be complicated with registration.

Only special assembly planned for the opening week of school is a Constitution Day program which will be arranged for September 17, anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. Plans are still incomplete.

To impress the importance of this anniversary townspeople are requested to display the national emblem on this day.

Fine Leadership And Training Assured Boy Scout Explorer Group By Forest Ranger Service

Organization of an Explorer Scout group here approached a step nearer realization this week as C. E. (Pat) Harlan, Santa Anita District Ranger now serving as trainer for the Angeles Forest took the responsibility of furnishing accredited and qualified leaders when the group is organized.

Leaders will act in an advisory capacity only as members of the Explorers are given full responsibility for formulating and carrying out a planned schedule approved by the group and their leaders.

This guarantee of adequate leadership by Mr. Harlan gave a new impetus to the local Explorer

Plunge Office Will Serve Canyon As Dressing Station

The council voted Tuesday to have all hardwood floors in the city hall refinished by city labor, and approved a request from Mrs. E. G. Everett and Mrs. J. P. Nash that the lobby and office of the swimming pool building be redecorated so that an emergency dressing station may be set up there.

A letter from the Southern Counties Gas Co., asked that ordinance 411 governing blackouts be amended to permit the use of approved blackout lamps to mark dangerous street areas where work is in progress. The necessary amendment was ordered drawn.

School Hours Shifted In Pasadena

New Starting Time At Wilson Junior High And The Junior College

To relieve early morning congestion which has become acute through concentration of defense plants in the Los Angeles-Pasadena area, Pasadena schools have revised their time schedule so that classes in Junior College and Junior high schools, as well as elementary schools, will be in session from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

George Boone, principal of Wilson Junior High School, has announced that bus service will continue here as in previous years with the exception of one of the late afternoon busses which may be removed. Four busses will leave each morning operating on a schedule one half hour later than last year to conform with the revised class time. A schedule agreeable to all sections of the Pasadena school district will be arranged at a meeting of principals tonight.

New students at Wilson School who are planning to attend the get-together at the school Saturday morning are advised by Mr. Boone that they will be expected to furnish their own transportation as the busses will not operate until Monday morning when school opens. Registration will continue today and tomorrow at Wilson.

Takes Three Days To Gather Up City's Junk Collection

Sierra Madreans dug deeply into their salvage closets this month and collected so much material valuable to the war effort that three well filled Army Salvage trucks rolled out of town Tuesday with only part of the town covered. They returned again Wednesday and expect to finish the monthly collection tomorrow.

Five New Auxiliary Firemen Added To Defense Group

On recommendation of Fire Chief Richards, the appointment of five new members of the auxiliary firemen's unit of civilian defense was approved by the city council Tuesday evening. The new group includes Peter Kreuschner, Bob Clark, Art Gadd, Wm. Winthrop and Dale Langley.

Blood Donor List Short Of Quota

Less Than 100 Persons Register Despite Great Need For Men At War

"Today more than 100 Sierra Madre boys are out on some battle front or preparing to leave for such a front to fight and if need be die—for us. Already one local casualty has been reported in the Solomon Island fighting which we have all been watching as one of the deciding factors of the war in the Pacific. Yet here in our own town less than 100 people of the 120 who are needed have volunteered to give some of these men—maybe some of our own—a fighting chance for life, by contributing to the Blood Bank on September 18," Dr. John Woehler, chairman of the local Blood Bank committee, said yesterday.

"On battle fronts around the globe our boys, going through the crucible of modern war, are being sent into spots which mean almost certain injury and perhaps death, so that we at home may be given the maximum defense which we are demanding. Can we ask this sacrifice without backing those men with everything we've got?" asked Dr. Woehler in seeking to enlist greater support from younger men and women in the community, who are among those most able to give to the Blood Bank, but who, for the most part, have been leaving this war contribution up to older citizens.

"I have yet to talk with a donor who has not had a deep spiritual lift from knowing that he is doing his part to balance his account with some man whom he may never see, but who, nevertheless is out there fighting for your life and mine," he said. Donors may register at Red Cross headquarters at any time or with Mrs. R. E. Wright, assistant Blood Bank chairman, who may be reached by dialing 4989.

The Blood Bank will be set up at the Woman's Club on the 18th, with a competent staff of professional workers augmented by a large group of local assistants who will work under the direction of Mrs. Wright.

Marge Hesse Quits Newspaper Work To Wed A Fire Chief

Surprising her many friends in Southern California, Miss Marjorie Hesse, former member of the Sierra Madre NEWS staff and more recently editor of the Wilshire Press in Los Angeles, slipped quietly away on August 11 to Reno, Nev., where in the First Baptist church she was married to Wm. R. Orman. The marriage was announced last week by Mrs. Hattie Lumpkin of Pasadena, mother of Mrs. Orman.

Mrs. Orman made her home here for more than a year after leaving the staff of the NEWS, when she became society editor of the Arcadia Tribune. Mr. Orman is fire chief of Luning, Nev., where a huge magnesium plant is now under construction by the Henry J. Kaiser interests.

WOMEN GRAPE PICKERS THRILL AT IDEA OF HELPING FEED THE FIGHTING MEN

Sierra Madre Supervisor Says Working Conditions Are Pleasant

Leaving Sierra Madre to take a more active part in the war effort, Mrs. Grace B. Caukin, former chairman of women's activities for the Defense Council has joined the American Woman's Voluntary Service and has been appointed supervisor of the AWWVS camp at Delano, where hundreds of women, including Mrs. Louise Block of this city, are taking care of the grape harvest.

Detailing the work of the women in the fields, Mrs. Caukin reports that they leave at 6:45 a.m. returning to the camp for dinner at noon and then go back for the afternoon. "I have heard more than one of the women harvesters tell of a husband, son or brother who is in Ireland, Iceland, the Solomon Islands or one of the Japanese prison camps," Mrs. Caukin said. "A number are ex-school teachers, nurses or business women. One fine upstanding young woman is a business secretary at one of the largest commercial advertise-

Read This Booklet And Help Prevent A Real Disaster

Particularly interesting, timely and instructive since President Roosevelt's radio address outlining his program to prevent disastrous inflation is a booklet entitled, Invisible Greenbacks—The way inflation will come in this country... If we are fools enough to let it.

Henry Scherman is the author. It has attracted nationwide attention and has been recommended as "must" reading for every citizen, by the nation's leading thinkers and patriots. "It is the most important thing which the American printing press has rolled out in the last six months," says William Allen White.

President R. C. Lewis of the Sierra Madre Savings bank has secured a limited number of copies of the much discussed volume and they are available to Sierra Madreans for the asking at the bank.

City Warned To Prepare For Bombs

OCD Official Pictures Horror That Follows Dropping Of Deadly Missiles

Grim reality of the effect of modern warfare on civilians was presented to Sierra Madre Kiwanians Tuesday by John Borden, assistant director of disaster relief of the Los Angeles County Defense Council.

Thoroughly familiar with civilian defense activities throughout the county and informed on the various methods of attack which could be employed to devastate this area, Mr. Borden indicated that all residents of this highly concentrated defense sector should accept the premise that "it can happen here."

Declaring that an unlimited amount of wreckage can be left in the wake of just one well placed high explosive bomb, he cited several instances of the bombing in Shanghai, where one 500-pound bomb took the lives of 1368 civilians.

Stating that Californians must seriously recognize the possibility of a bombing or fire attack on this coast and consequent mass destruction of lives as well as property, Mr. Borden is advising all citizens to wear as a locket, a plain steel identification tag, bearing necessary information including any chronic ailment from which the wearer may suffer, so that this would be taken into consideration if emergency medical aid should be given. He strongly discouraged identification bracelets or anklets particularly of jewelry metal, declaring that the possibility of fire must be considered, and that steel only is sufficiently heat resistant to be of real value.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Borden showed scores of uncensored photographs presenting the immediate aftermath of bombings in China where casualties have been extremely high.

ing firms in Los Angeles. She tells me that she gets this two weeks vacation with pay and so she will put every penny of the vacation fund and half of what she earns here, into war bonds! Such pluck! Today the women washed and ironed, and pulled stickers out of their slacks. They must wear slacks, shoes with toes and long sleeves in order to protect their skin. After work, a shower, supper and bed. It isn't too easy, but it certainly is an inspiration to see them at work."

The American Woman's Voluntary Service has established six camps from Vacaville to Delano. Fields of vines are the basis for a very large packing house and a great winery. All types of grapes are grown, processed, made into raisens or wine. There are over 2000 pickers at Delano. "Although our number has quadrupled within a week we must have more pickers or Uncle Sam won't have raisins for our soldier boys," says Mrs. Caukin, "and if there are any women in Sierra Madre who want to do a real piece of war work, this is the time and place."

New Order Of Sisters At St. Rita's

On instructions from Bishop John Cantwell of the Los Angeles diocese, the Sisters of St. Francis of Mt. Alverno, who recently established their Pacific Coast mother house on the Barlow estate here, will assume charge of St. Rita's School this fall, relieving the Sisters of the Presentation who formerly conducted the school.

In preparation for the fall semester which opens today, Father Leo Schiebel, C.P., priest of St. Rita's Parish, has had the parochial school interior completely redecorated, all desks and floors refinished and modern venetian blinds placed at all windows. New roofing has been placed on both the school and parish house. The school grounds have been oiled to control the dust, and later, perhaps during the Christmas vacation, will be treated with a second and heavier application which will assure a smooth hard surface.

For the present no arrangements have been made for the Sisters' residence which adjoins the school, as the Sisters of St. Francis may continue to live at the convent. In the event that they do not take up residence at the home, it will probably be redecorated and rented, according to Father Leo.

37 More Rate First Aid Certificates

Sierra Madra Maintains Its Average As Three Classes Graduate

Every month since the beginning of the war has found additional groups of Sierra Madre First Aid students emerging from classes with their standard or advanced certificates, ready to step into any emergency to assist those who have been injured.

Two classes recently recommended for standard certificates by Mrs. Rosalie Goodwin included Mmes. Edna Barkman, Alice Dempsey, Olive Fowler, Frances Gieringer, Annie B. Griebowen, Hilda B. Johnson, who has been appointed assistant adjutant for the emergency station located at Dr. M. H. A. Peterson's office; Jean Kearney, C. H. Kehroff, Robert McCullagh, Helen Norozny, Carrie J. Nash, Herman C. Schultz, Agnes Stringfellow, Catherine Tuttle, Mrs. Nihell and Miss Rose White.

Mmes. Irene Askew, Jean Baile, Frances Davis, Theone Davis, Olive Dorsey, Edith Doty, Rowena Grey, Mary Goodfellow, Helen Hill, W. C. Knapp, Anne Kneel, L. F. Pierson, Margaret Senour, Ruth Senour, Edith Scott, Ethel M. Stone and Miss Wilma Smith.

Latest graduates recommended for certificates by Dr. Nathan Jacobs were Mrs. Peggy Babbitt, Mrs. Randolph Behrens, Fred Chamberlain, LeRoy Davis, Noren Eaton, Mrs. Viola Guardia, Mrs. Grace Hall, Ansel L. O'Banion, Mrs. Theodore Proctor, Louise Stamer, Emil Sturthal, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ward, Jr., and Mrs. Wm. Hopper.

Receiving their certificates after completing the First Aid Course with Mrs. E. R. Thompson are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey M. Hickok and Guy Hartman.

Sierra Madrean Is Injured In Battle Of Solomon Islands

First known Sierra Madre casualty in the recent Solomon Island battles is Keithal P. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Anthony of 765 Woodland Drive. Anthony, who was rated as chief machinists mate with the Navy at the outbreak of the war but whose rating may have been advanced since then, was stationed at Pearl Harbor during the December 7 attack.

His parents have received word from the War Department that he had been seriously injured in the Solomon fighting. His wife, a registered nurse, who was also at Pearl Harbor during the attack, is now making her home here with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony.

Fearful Of Disaster Canyon Residents Demand Outlet From Congested Area

City Gets Gas Funds For Improvement Of Its Streets

Allocation of $3,384.74 gasoline tax funds for the improvement of Sierra Madre streets has been made by county supervisors. Claremont will receive $4,823.72, and Long Beach $101,378.29. In addition the city gets $230.36 from the State as a six-months allotment of motor vehicle tax money.

Add 25 Names To Defense Roll Call

Group Of Men Qualify For Various Branches Of Local Organization

Sierra Madre's army of trained volunteer civilian defense workers has been swelled by another group of 25 civic minded local men who have completed required Red Cross training and are now ready for full participation in the protection of local civilians either as air raid wardens, auxiliary control center members or in some other equally important branch of civilian defense work.

Those qualified, as accredited first aid graduates by Harold Diffley, first aid instructor with whom they completed their training, are Percy F. Bennett, Robert M. Bottom, R. E. Cavalier, John C. James, J. Duane Keller, Sr., Willard H. McCarty, Charles J. McGregor, Donald C. Parker, R. W. Solomon, Ben Fitchett, Fred A. Krinke, Owen A. Kiggins, Walter E. Sutton, R. C. Lewis, Carl Hansen, Edmund R. Blakeman, Arthur Bush, Ransom Mathews, D. J. Rauscher, W. F. Rhodes, Tommy Schwartz, Sidney Brock, Robert Knapp, Lincoln Paschall and Martin Goldberg.

Officers Of Junior Woman's Club To Map Program

Opening their club season, members of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club Juniors will hold their first autumn meeting tonight when plans will be made for activities through the year.

Taking part in the formulation of the year's program will be Glean Drury, president; Arlene Olsen, vice president; Gloria Swanson, recording secretary; Althea Butler, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Hawks, treasurer; Ruth Miles, philanthropy chairman; Helen Needles, press chairman; Barbara Heasley, citizenship; Melba Seifert, hospitality; Nita Twedell, needlework; Marian Fitchett, penny arts, and Winnie Lees, house chairman.

Johnson Resigns From Police Force

Believing that his natural abilities in mechanical construction should be put into use for the war effort, Arthur Johnson, member of the Sierra Madre Police force for several years, has presented his resignation to Police Chief McMillan, to become effective October 1.

Upon his release from police duties Mr. Johnson will join the staff at the R. A. Hawks machine shop.

IS YOUR HOME ADEQUATELY PROTECTED AGAINST FALLING BOMBS? WOMEN ARE ASKED

By Patricia Corley

Are you one of those women who are so busy with her clubs, her Red Cross work, her civilian defense job, or her family, that you have forgotten one of your most important war time duties? That is the question being directed to California homemakers by the woman's division of the State Council of Defense. It refers to the home itself. Is YOUR home adequately protected against falling bombs?

"The basic unit of preparedness for protection is the HOME," the State Council of Defense says in urging all women to enlist in the "We Are Prepared" campaign now being waged by county and city councils of defense.

Fire Closing Off Single Narrow Roadway Would Cut Only Means Of Escape

Declaring that in a fire emergency, Canyon Park would become a blazing death trap for scores of residents in that area through lack of outlets, Capt. E. G. Everett appeared before the city council Tuesday evening, representing residents of the area to ask that some plan be worked out to provide a means of access from the upper end of the Canyon to Churchill drive, and Marlborough terrace.

"All traffic from the Canyon is bottlenecked at the narrow intersection of Sturtevant drive and Canyon avenue, and should a fire ever start it could sweep through the entire Canyon area, creating a holocaust from which residents could not escape," said Capt. Everett. "This is war," he continued, "and we have new conditions to consider since Pearl Harbor. We have many residents in the Canyon and surely some plan which might save their lives needs to be considered quickly."

Agreeing that Canyon Park presents the most potentially disastrous situation in the city, the council assigned Marion Hays, street superintendent, and Joseph Swanson, water superintendent, to make a survey of the upper canyon, mapping property which would be involved in putting through a road or wide path.

They will also contact Canyon Park residents to get a cross section of opinion of those who would be most affected and will also make a survey on the eastern end of Sturtevant road in line with Capt. Everett's suggestion that some connection should be made with that section of the Canyon and Acacia street to provide a second direct outlet.

Last Teacher Is Added To School Staff

Noted Harpist Is Music Instructor—Constitution Day To Be Observed

Refreshed from their long summer holiday Sierra Madre grammar school pupils and teachers will return to school Monday prepared to take an important part in the war program. Already many pupils have signified an interest in forming first aid classes, while others will participate in an extensive salvage program. Again this year War Saving stamps will be available at the school and children will be encouraged to save on small luxuries and put their spending money into stamps.

Miss Aida Mulieri, young harpist and former member of Leopold Stokowski's American Youth Orchestra and who has been hailed by the great conductor as one of the four best harpists in the United States, will join the Sierra Madre Grammar School staff next week, taking over the music department.

Miss Mulieri, whose family has produced several musicians who have been members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, received her Bachelor of Arts degree with a music major at UCLA. Following her graduation she joined the Walt Disney studios as leading harpist, also teaching privately.

In addition to her proficiency on the harp Miss Mulieri plays several brass instruments, woodwinds and strings.

use, all the necessary equipment with which to fight incendiary bombs? Do you have a first aid kit and other medical supplies? Do you have a sufficient water supply, both for fire fighting and drinking purposes? Do you have an emergency food supply of dried and canned foods? Is your refuge room ready for occupancy and are your blackout precautions adequate? Are you acquainted with the new methods, just announced from Washington, of fighting fire bombs? The women's division of the State Council is asking that every housewife obtain complete information about home protection from her air raid warden, if she has not already done so.

HERBERT HOWARD MARRIES AN EL MONTE GIRL

Now honeymooning in northern California are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Howard who were married Saturday night at the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale by Rev. Chester Lewis of the El Monte Methodist Church. Mrs. Howard is the former Lillian Frances Scroggins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loney E. Scroggins of El Monte. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howard of 97 South Hermosa avenue.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white slip per satin gown trimmed in Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice, long tight sleeves and train. Her three-quarter length veil edged with matching Chantilly lace fell from a seed pearl halo. She carried a ribboned shower bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Pale pink chiffon, trimmed in matching velvet ribbon, was worn by Miss Betty Anderson, maid of honor, who carried blue delphinium and pink rosebuds. The bridesmaids, Misses Grace Limbaugh, Kathryn Hooker and Lucile Sligar were gowned in turquoise organdy trimmed in matching velvet ribbon and carried nosegays of pink and blue. The bride's mother wore a crayon blue crepe ensemble with a gardenia corsage and the bridegroom's mother wore blue lace.

Ormie Brimmer acted as best man to the bridegroom and ushers were LeRoy Limbaugh, Stanton Irvine and Henry Sievers. Traditional wedding music was played preceding and following the ceremony. Guests gathered afterward in the garden at the home of the bride's parents for a reception.

Mrs. Howard is a graduate of the El Monte High School where she was president of the Sub-Deb Club and editor of the school paper. She is employed at the Bank of America in El Monte. Her husband is a graduate of Pasadena Junior College and is employed in Los Angeles where they will make their home.

In an informal ceremony performed Sunday afternoon in St. Anthony's Church in Long Beach, Miss Vivona Goergen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Goergen of South Dakota, exchanged marriage vows with Sgt. John Bridgeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bridgeland of 27 East Grand View avenue.

The bride, who wore an air-force blue suit with wine-red accessories, was attended by Miss Carol Krier. Sgt. and Mrs. Bridgeland will make their home in Long Beach where he is stationed with the U.S. Army Air Corps.

PARTY CELEBRATES GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Members of the Sierra Madre Canyon Thimble Club entertained their former neighbor and club member, Mrs. Fred Blackman and her husband with a dinner party Saturday, celebrating the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Richardson of 707 Woodland drive. A wedding anniversary motif was carried out in floral arrangements and decorations and each member wore a beautiful corsage. Mrs. James Whitechurch was in charge of arrangements and guests included Mrs. Martha Peters, Ellen Whitechurch, Gracie Funkhouser, Eula Linville, Anna Block, Nora Bates, Blanche Topping, Hannah Mylott, Carrie Heath, Mae Ostrum, Esther Widlers, Lillian Wood, Etta Leach, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackman and granddaughter, Geraldine, of Long Beach.

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER FOR FRANCES LA LONE

Miss Mary Davis and Miss Reva Russell were hostesses at a personal pre-nuptial shower given Wednesday night at the home of Miss Davis of 170 Adams street, for Miss Frances LaLone who on September 20 will become the bride of Sgt. Charles Finley of Burbank. Thirty-five guests attended the show-er and the evening's festivities. White decorations were used throughout the house and refreshments were served from a table centered by an arrangement of white flowers and fern.

MYLOTTS TO CELEBRATE THEIR 36TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Cazeau will arrive from Los Gatos Sunday to attend the 36th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Mylott of 696 Woodland drive, who will also have as their guests Capt. and Mrs. E. G. Everett and other Spanish-American war veterans. Mrs. Mylott, Mr. Cazeau and Capt. Everett saw service together in the Philippines where Mr. Cazeau served as Quartermaster sergeant under General Arthur McArthur.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF RUSSELL HOLLISTER

An announcement was made this week of the engagement of Miss Inez Naomi Haman, daughter of Mrs. Francis Maasen of Omaha, Neb., to Marion Russell Hollister, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hollister of 193 North Lima street. One hundred and fifty guests have been invited to the wedding which will take place September 19 at the Pasadena Wedding Chapel.

Miss Haman was educated in Omaha and is employed at the Vard plant in Pasadena. Her fiancé is a graduate of Polytechnic High School in Long Beach and is also employed at Vards.

Social Notes

Betty Jean Lukas celebrated her second birthday Sunday, August 30, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lukas of 674 East Sierra Madre blvd. Moving pictures were taken during the party and refreshments were served from a table decorated in a pink and green color scheme and centered by a large birthday cake. Among those present were Marlene and Raymond Lukas, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vanderhout and Harold Garritsen.

The patio at the home of Mrs. C. Lauren Maltby of 120 Lowell avenue was the scene of a gay party Monday night when Mrs. Maltby entertained in honor of her daughter Joan's birthday. Among those present were Dolores Colligan, Jacintha Kinney, Betty Garrison, Phyllis Young, Geraldine Ward, Carmen Baréa and Jeanne Maltby.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Attleton and sons of Los Angeles were luncheon guests Saturday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Andrew Hall of 611 West Grand View avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hansen of 219 North Sunnyside avenue were entertained at dinner Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Johnson of Altadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Barkman of 40 South Michillinda avenue were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Ernst of Pasadena for Sunday evening supper.

Mrs. Ed V. Ryan of 102 South Baldwin avenue, was hostess to members of her Los Angeles bridge club Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason of Huntington Park were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Billheimer of 70 Auburn avenue. Tuesday night Mr. and Mrs. Billheimer attended an announcement party revealing the engagement of his granddaughter, Miss Mary Louise Billheimer of Pasadena.

Junior Women Will Hold Sport Dance Saturday Evening

With Don Parker and his orchestra promising the best in dance music, the Woman's Club Juniors will present a sport dance at the Woman's clubhouse, Saturday evening from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Sunday morning. Jobs Offered 40 Plus Men And Women

Free Training Classes Available Here For Those Wanting Defense Work

Evidencing the uptrend for employment of people in or past middle age the United States Employment Service in Pasadena has placed many workers in these age groups in well paying jobs during recent months. Most of those finding a spot for themselves in industry have supplemented their previous learning and experience with additional training classes in the free National Defense training schools in Pasadena, South Pasadena and Monrovia.

Classes in defense training now open to women include aircraft sheet metal and machine shop and aircraft welding, but for the present women are not being used in shipyard welding, according to the USES. For men instruction is now being given in machine shop, wood patternmaking, ship yard welding, aircraft welding and shipfitting, and classes are open to inexperienced as well as those who may require only brushup training. A number of other supplementary training classes are now being offered to workers in the defense industries.

Those entering industrial training classes are advised that proof of citizenship is required and that the majority of plants require the passing of an industrial physical examination.

Further information regarding defense classes is obtainable from the United States Employment Service, 745 East Greent street, Pasadena.

Dr. J. S. Miller Buys Home Here; Moves Into New Office

Having purchased a home here Dr. and Mrs. J. Stadden Miller will move on September 10 from their present location at 65 East Sierra Madre blvd. to 71 East Alogria avenue.

On September 14 Dr. Miller will open his dental office in the Sierra Madre Hotel Arcade.

took fine toll of the enemy. She has four authentic German subs to her credit. Chief Sandborg is in this hospital for T.B. and disability received in the line of duty.

RECEPTION OF CASUALTIES—I am proud to write that the SIERRA MADRE NEWS "beats" the entire press of the Nation in the facts given below. Dr. D. C. Farnsworth, manager of this Facility, gives me permission to print the following facts in relation to the preparation that has been made for the reception of our casualties. These have never been published before. Gen. Robert E. Patterson, Surgeon-General, Ret. U.S.A., was at this hospital three weeks ago. He is dean of the U. of Okla. He came here as councillor for the U. S. Government.

More than thirty of the foremost physicians and surgeons—the outstanding scientists of the Nation, were selected for their superiority in various branches of medical and surgical theory and practice. These men have planned and executed the reception of the casualties that are to come within the next few months.

The wounded are coming! Gen. Frank T. Hines, Chief of the U.S. Veterans Administration, held a conclave some months ago, with these scientists both military and civilian, so that plans might be worked out for the reception of the incoming casualties. Here is the result of that conference:

WOUNDED TO THE INTERIOR—Arrived casualties will be transferred to the interior immediately upon their reception on the West Coast. They, according to Dr. Farnsworth, will be sent to Provo, Utah, and Bingham Canyon, Utah, where hospitals have already been built and in each of which 2000 beds await. All preparations have been made for their reception. None of them will be received here in this hospital except for transfer to the above points. The reason for this (I draw my own conclusions), is protection for the casualties against any possible enemy raid upon this Western Coast which is a direct theatre of war.

SAN FERNANDO HOSPITAL—This hospital, the U.S. Veterans Facility at San Fernando, is fully prepared under the direction of Dr. Farnsworth and Dr. J. J. Beatty, clinical director, for any unhappy event that may arrive.

There are two subterranean surgical receiving wards. They are equipped to receive 114 patients. There are two fully trained surgical "teams." These teams include two operators (surgeons), two surgical nurses and one anesthetist. These teams are ready day and night for any eventual-ity. They are for the benefit of casualties that may happen in this hospital. San Fernando and the rest of the valley are equipped to take care of their own.

FROZEN—Another point of interest that Dr. Farnsworth gave me is that all physicians, old or young, and all nurses are to be "frozen" in their various posts of duty throughout the facilities of the Veterans Administration.

RECAPITULATION—And now I have given you the story. The story that was so hard for me to write. I have done no "fine writing" but have given you facts. Our two hundred sons, brothers and fathers, who are now serving our country here and overseas, have faith in us on the home front. No city of 5000 in the U.S.A. has so gallantly, so loyally, and so bravely served—continues to serve and to sacrifice, as the city of Sierra Madre. But no matter how it may hurt—we MUST meet the issue—THE WOUNDED ARE COMING!

Mrs. Dennis Dempsey and children Dennis and Audrey, left Wednesday morning from a three weeks visit at Twin Falls, Idaho, where Mr. Dempsey is working on the construction of a Japanese resettlement location.

Woman From Alaska Finds A Way To Buy War Bonds

If you are retired and want to buy war bonds, but don't know how to manage it, Mrs. Alice Handley, former visitor in Sierra Madre has at least one of the answers.

About a year ago Mrs. Handley spent several weeks here visiting Mrs. Fannie Sea of 198 West Montecito avenue, greatly enjoying California weather in contrast to that of Alaska where she has made her home since 1937. In the early days of the Alaskan Territory, Mrs. Handley learned that there was little room there for those who did not work. Looking about her to decide on some business she found that a laundry was most needed and immediately set about relieving the situation for busy miners in Fairbanks.

Many years ago she retired from all business activity, but recently went back into laundry work because a new need for that particular work has arisen—but mostly because if she works she can put her earnings into War Bonds and so help to win the war.

KEEP THEM FIRING—WITH JUNK!

What They Say ---

Hedy LaMarr, explaining her success in selling War Bonds to men— "I smile sweetly. I say, 'I'd just love to sell a War Bond to you personally.' Then I smile appealingly. Then he buys. That's all there is to it—for me."

Leonard "Stub" Allison, U.C. football coach— "My hope in this autumn of war is that every able-bodied student at California will turn out for football. It isn't the game as a game—it's that football is the greatest fraternity to which a college student can belong."

Mrs. Gertrude Christy, Red Cross nutrition director, commenting on possible rationing of meat— "Everybody'll get along all right. Most of the railroads were built on beans—that was the chief diet of the husky Irish workmen. So it can be done."

It's common sense to be thrifty. If you save you are thrifty. War Bonds help you to save and help to save America. Buy your ten per cent every pay day.

Public Warned On Phony Defense Aids

The National Better Business Bureau recently released to police officials an official report on numerous rackets now flourishing which play on the anxiety of civilians to cooperate with the war effort. Many civilian defense gadgets, such as special fire-resisting sand, powders, bomb snufflers, grabs and scoops, none of which have the slightest usefulness, are now being peddled to a public desirous of being armed with the best fire-fighting equipment available in case of air raids, the Bureau warns. In order to forestall these needless purchases, the Office of Civilian Defense recommends the substitution of a very plentiful material—plain water.

CONSTITUTION DAY

On September 17, 1787, one of the ablest bodies of men ever gathered together in America finished an epochal task—the creation and adoption of a constitution for the American states.

That the Federal Constitution has survived wars, foreign and civil, that it serves a highly industrialized nation of 130 million with as great success as it did a small agrarian nation of four million, souls clustered along the Atlantic seaboard a century and a half ago, that it has been the model for numbers of republican governments in Europe and Latin America during its illustrious existence, all testify to its enduring greatness.

Our Constitution was designed by and for Americans, but its purpose and principles reach out to men of good will in all lands. Its high goal, "to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," proclaims the common aspirations of civilized nations and people the world over. Because this Constitution and the freedom it guarantees, because this country's very independence, are alike menaced by the barbarous powers of darkness, the forces of freedom have taken up arms against the enemy. In exercising the privileges of free men in peace time, and defending them in war time, the American people pay solemn homage to the Constitution and the land of liberty it guards.

REMEMBER THEM NOW

It's Christmas shopping time for those planning to send presents to members of the armed forces now stationed abroad.

Here, in mid-September's golden days, we can scarcely hear an echo of Kris Kringle's sleigh bells—or so much as catch a glimpse of shining holly with white-berried mistletoe. Yet six weeks more will bring the final deadline for sending Christmas gifts abroad to our soldiers, sailors and airmen stationed from Iceland to Africa, from Australia to North Ireland.

Thus warn the Army, Navy and Post Office Departments, setting November 1 as the last-chance mailing date, and asking the public not to send packages exceeding the bulk of an ordinary shoe box, nor exceeding six pounds in weight. They politely request that food not be sent, and the same applies to clothing unless specifically requested.

So far as sending such gifts to Europe, Asia, and the South Pacific are concerned, the last day of October is your Christmas Eve. Remember it, so when the real Christmas morning awakens America's fighting men on distant seas and at lonely outposts far from home, your thoughtfulness will bring them Christmas cheer. In a word, it's time to start shopping at home!

The.... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

ALMOST mid-September, yet still, most likely, with plenty of hot weather ahead of us. But up in the High Sierra the Big Winds have begun to blow—foreshadowers of Old Man Winter. The deer and the birds are drifting down to more sheltered places. All along the foothills—here in Sierra Madre and to the east and west of us—half-tame deer are foraging in orchard and garden, especially at dawn and dusk; and all day long the trees are lively with migrant birds. Both birds and deer have a liking for figs and peaches, now at their best. Happily, most of the birds, however, are insect-feeders. Few insects now to be found up high in the mountains—and that's another reason why we get the birds; also why insects here in our blessed village are so rare—the birds see them first.

INCIDENTALLY, a dear soul wants to know how to tell a Bluebird from a Jay. That's all right. Jays also are blue—both the California Jay, which has no top-knot and is the common sort we see in our gardens every day, and the so-called Blue-fronted Jay, which has a top-knot and is so common around the mountain camps. But jays—and there are others besides the two sorts we've mentioned—are big, bigger than blackbirds; while the true bluebirds are more of a sparrow size. Another thing that distinguishes the bluebird—which all the scientific bird-books we've ever consulted seem to overlook—is the shock of happiness you get when you see one.

WHICH isn't so often, especially in cities—even in a "city" like Sierra Madre. For bluebirds generally prefer the country. Last Sunday, though, we did see three—in a pine-tree on Highland avenue, and just down from the hills no doubt. Western Bluebirds, these were—dark blue backs and ruddy breasts. Then, last year, we remember having seen a flock of real Mountain Bluebirds—a dozen or more—sky-blue all over. And were we happy! As if there were something, after all, in that old, practically universal superstition, or primitive symbolism, which makes the Bluebird a messenger of happiness. See for yourself—if you don't get the message—the next time a bluebird comes your way.

HAPPINESS in our own case, though, with a pang. Of remembrance. A recollection of that day—it must have been of sixty years ago—when we went "hunting" along with a bunch of other boys. All of whom were older than we were. A fact impressed upon us, because all that we had to hunt with was one old Flobert rifle and a box of "22 shorts," so that they were all taking turns at firing excepting us—until there was only one shot left. And then, to settle an all-hands wrangle as to who should use this last round, they let us have it. We shook all over when they handed us the Flobert. Gee, it felt heavy! We shook worse than ever when someone spied a bird in the bushes somewhere ahead.

EVERYONE—ourselves excepted—saw it pretty soon, getting excited, telling us to hurry. We raised the gun and pointed it toward the place they indicated. Still we couldn't see any bird. But we didn't dare say so. Besides, our mind was too occupied with the queer feeling in the pit of our stomach. Someone near us cocked the hammer for us. There was a silence. We pretended to aim. Where was that bird? We pulled the trigger. There was a shout: "He hit it! He hit it!" And while some danced around and praised our shooting, others ran to retrieve the game. They brought it back. You've guessed it—we'd killed a bluebird.

OFTEN and often we've thought of that bird we killed—a sin we've charged against ourselves and confessed in many a solitude—to the God of Birds, if such there be (in Whom, with all our soul, we do believe). It was a sin we've been trying ever since, just about, to expiate. So that this bluebird—who knows?—may have died, after all, as a sacrifice, to save others' of its kind. Leading us up into all sorts of queer and moving speculations. As to why, for example, such creatures seem so ready to pardon man's trespasses against them; how they show such goodwill toward men despite our everlasting lack of charity and understanding toward them; even to the point of denying them, it seems, a place in our religion. Do these minor brethren have a religion of their own?

FOR example, all this past week, night after night, we've been hearing two owls, one a screech-owl and the

MARCH OF RIMES

By H. F. NOAKE

MAKE MINE VANILLA

The mortar and the pestle, symbolic twins of yore. No longer aid in finding an apothecary's store. And those enormous bottles, one green, the other red, have left the ancient windows to join the honored dead. That smell of musk is missing. My! how things disappear, and there's no more "skeeter netting," wrapped around the chandelier. The old familiar objects, once dear to you and me, have now completely vanished from the modern pharmacy. Instead, the place is cluttered with toys, perfumes and clocks, with bathing caps, and talking dolls, and cameras, and socks. Now here's a sample personnel, one druggist plus two clerks, a pair of chefs, a cute cashier and fourteen soda jerks. But after all, why grumble, the druggist still sells pills, those ham on ryes, and chocolate malts just help him pay his bills.

other a barn-owl—sometimes both of them practically together—somewhere nearby up in the trees around our house. In passing, we think a better name for the screech-owl would be, say, "warbling-owl." He really does warble much oftener than he screeches—even if then you'd call it a screech; to us it sounds more just like a simpering giggle. While the barn-owl's effort will make you think of a dog whining to get in; or, again, it may sound like an idiot playing with a rusty hinge. But owls do sometimes kill and eat small birds. We ask ourselves—when the small birds hear these killers in the night, do they have a feeling in their hearts equivalent to prayer?

BROWNIE SCOUTS TO RECEIVE PENDANTS

BROWNIE SCOUTS . . . Inside . . . Final summer meeting of Brownie Scout Troop 3 will be held this week at the home of its leader, Mrs. S. E. Peterson. The following girls will be presented with their first year flower pendant: Joanne Sparks, Linda DeBorde, Shirley Peterson, Connie Best, Gertrude Annas, Françoise de Heurtanmont, Barbara Fergus and Molly O'Donnell. After the reopening of school the regular Brownie meetings will be held in the kindergarten room of the school.

Engraved cards at The News.

Before very long, because of the war, Hollywood will be making only a tenth of the pictures made now—around 50 a year instead of 500. Many factors enter. Technicians, writers, younger leading men are going into government or military service. Various materials grow scarce, and there are limits on set construction. This by no means indicates that the movie industry is non-essential. The government and the industry will cooperate in the common purpose of using the powerful medium of the screen to promote morale and foster education for winning the war and the peace. It will mean to the general public, in all probability, merely fewer and better pictures—with mass production of "B" pictures eliminated. That should work no hardship on the national movie audience, nor, in the long run, on the prospects for continued greatness of the moving picture industry.

We doubt if America's manpower shortage will ever grow so acute as Britain's where girls in their teens are now manning London anti-aircraft batteries and, what's more, successfully bringing down enemy bombers. But America's steadily increasing labor shortage means millions of women whose closest approach to machinery heretofore has been running a vacuum cleaner or an electric mixer machine, must now find their places in the nation's metal working shops, in aircraft and ordnance plants. And "must" is the word if production goals essential to victory are to be met. The regular sources of labor power are nearing exhaustion. Of the 14 million workers now engaged in war industries, some 8,600,000 of these were formerly employed in civilian non-war production and services. Another one and a half million have been supplied by the unemployed while the remainder have come from the ranks of women never before employed. Next year's war production goals will require the addition of 4 to 5 million workers from the lists of those who never before have been employed. And women, next year, as this, must supply the great majority of new recruits to the nation's hard-pressed production lines. With the Army claiming some 4 million men by the end of the year, and still only half way to its total planned strength, and with shipbuilding, aircraft and ordnance plants in need of millions more workers, the brigades of women war workers are due to rise by leaps and bounds.

Meat rationing days may usher in the next war-born shortage to affect the lives of some 130 million Americans. Caught between the high price of livestock and fixed retail price ceilings, the meat packing industry has been begging the Office of Price Administration, to act swiftly to save many of its small members from enforced bankruptcy. Some have already closed down, the unfortunate victims of a price control plan which has clamped the lid tight on just one side of the inflation steam kettle and left the other uncovered. Now a situation has developed where either price ceilings must be raised, or cellophane placed on livestock. The third alternative is meat rationing, but not because there isn't a sufficiency of it in the country. The obvious reason is that if packers and meat markets must pay more for what they buy than they are permitted to sell it for, they can't continue buying meat and stay in business.

Now comes an all-plastic office safe—no iron or steel! It is actually being made—and sold, by a Pennsylvania manufacturer.

Nuts in Los Angeles County lead the state in total acreage planted, according to 1941 estimates recently released by the Crops Reporting Service at Sacramento.

There are 20,393 automobile graveyards in the United States, representing the home of 918,607 junk cars and trucks, it was revealed in a report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. New York tops all states with 1,489 "auto graveyards," while Pennsylvania has the most "junk" cars and trucks, 84,412. California's report was 876 "graveyards," while Pennsylvania has the most "junk" cars and trucks, 84,412.

The tube-for-tube exchange over toilet goods counters is netting 40 tons a month of critical metal, according to the conservation division of WPB.

Californians in the operation of passenger cars, trucks and buses consumed 1,977,309,000 gallons of gasoline in 1941 to lead all other States of the Union in the total motor fuel consumption. New York was second highest in gas consumption with 1,963,037,000 gallons.

LESS'N'LESS—Chances for chillblains along the east coast are still good this winter with the rationing of fuel. New Yorkers got serious when Mayor LaGuardia warned that apartments may be allowed to supply warm water—not hot—only in the mornings and evenings, on account of the fuel oil shortage. . . . Western Union and Postal Telegraph are giving up all "luxury" items like singing telegrams, kiddiegrams, holiday and birthday specials, come September 18, because war-drive messages need so much space and priority on the wires. . . . Very few tennis balls made of virgin rubber are still available; those made with reclaim are holding up pretty well, but they must have at least a pinch of crude, and it's not sure that even those amounts will be available indefinitely for such use. . . . Some price have ballooned 50-fold and more. . . . Fact is, the war has come pretty close to making this a "have-not" nation practically overnight.

The converted auto industry is turning out war goods at the rate of $13,600,000 worth a day—one-fifth again as much as at the peak of peacetime production of automobiles!

YOU'RE RIGHT tootin'

Says William Allen White.
"The Sage of Emporia" about America's Railroads

"You ask me whether I think the American railroads are doing their jobs in this grave crisis. Well, I would say, you're right tootin', they are and tootin' is the word!

"I live six city blocks north of the Santa Fe main lines. All trains between Chicago and Galveston, between Chicago and Los Angeles and San Diego east or west, go right by my door and you should hear them toot. Try to sleep with your south windows open on a summer night and you will certainly hear them toot.

"It's a continuous procession of swift passenger trains laden with soldiers and long grumbling, rumbling freight trains often with two engines and all night they sound like some cosmic rooster crowing to spell the dawn of the day of doom for America's enemies.

"No other service in the United States is doing such a swell job as the American railroads. They were ready for it. When the warning came in '39 after we repealed the embargo clause of the Neutrality Law, the railroads knew what was coming. They are now equipped with cars and with rails. Their roundhouses are full but not clogged. They keep the wheels moving.

"The American capacity for organization under crisis never was exemplified so splendidly as the American railroads have proved their worth and excellence. It is a great job well done. It is a sort of thing that Americans do better than anything else. Our hard common sense, our indomitable purpose to achieve, all these are back of our effort. The railroads have done their work without friction with either labor or capital. They have responded to a great emergency with splendid intelligence.

"And are they doing their job? You're just right tootin' they are!"

Let's All Pull Together

Increasingly, under war conditions, the railroads must furnish mass transportation, military and civilian, for the nation. The load is already great—and growing steadily. Military movements come first, without question. You can do much to help us maintain adequate rail service for civilian needs as well, in these ways: When you travel, make your reservations and buy your tickets early; cancel reservations promptly, if necessary; check all personal baggage not actually needed in passenger cars; and spread the travel load by avoiding week-end and holiday rush periods. When you make shipments, order freight cars only to your actual current requirements; load them to capacity; and release them promptly.

AT YOUR SERVICE—Why not talk over your transportation problems with your Santa Fe representative? He'll be glad to help you with practical suggestions.

Side Glances and Soliloquies

by Libby Trimble

Sierra Madreans are experiencing these days an example of what a bombing might be like. . . minus, of course, the bombs. Planes from bomber training stations across the mountains swoop and dive around like huge birds, practicing dive bombing over our mountains and our town at various hours of the day and night. Using imagination one might consider for a moment what havoc and unhappiness would be wrought should these planes belong to our enemies. That thought brings home to us the knowledge that a great amount of our trust and hope for the future must necessarily lie with these young aviators who cruise, circle and dive through the air far above us as they learn.

The first rumblings of an anti-noise campaign are making themselves noticeable here. Night workers are complaining about their neighbors dogs, radios and children, while day laborers are mentally shaking their fists at the disturbance caused in the early morning hours when swing shifters urge their fellow sufferers to greater speed in getting started to work by repeated squawks of automobile horns. With the advent of colder weather perhaps ear muffs would be the solution.

Edward Voorhees and Dr. Louis Corti are the proud part-owners of a Siamese cat which is, according to Mr. Voorhees, a tramp. The cat appears at their home every so often to be fed and then drifts on to some other resident of Mira Monte avenue. The fact that she is a capable and strong willed feline is indisputable. Seeking a home for her last litter of kittens she chose one in which there already lived a large chow dog. So to make things safe for her new family she chased the dog away so forcibly that he won't even venture on the same street.

Frances LaLone laughingly admitted recently to a complete lack of the knowledge of flower names and recalled the time she was working at the Wistaria Vine during the annual fete. When interested and curious people would ask her the name of a strange plant Frances would obligingly tell them it was an Iris. . . because that was the only name she could remember.

The Pacific Electric conductors say they would rather have the run to Sierra Madre than any other in the far flung P.E. system. I always did feel that our town was a fascinating place and that goes to prove it.

Sam Bradshaw just sailed in and out again and tossed over the counter the thought that it would be a very worthwhile thing for some suitable person to organize a day nursery for children of women war workers. The organization would cut down the necessity of individual help and lift many worries from the minds of mothers who feel they should be aiding in the war effort.

Families Offered Weekend In The Country With Pay

Would you and your family— and perhaps some other family group with whom you maintain a particular friendship, like to spend a weekend in the country, and at the same time assist Uncle Sam in getting in the autumn harvest? This is the question being put to Southland families by the United States Employment Service which is now seeking people to harvest current crops.

According to the Service, family groups will be accepted for weekend work, and will return with earnings to supplement the family budget and with a new understanding of California harvesting and the many interesting phases of harvest camp life.

Those interested in participating in this program to save all California crops may obtain further information from the United States Employment Service in Pasadena.

MRS. MAY BARLOW BACK IN SIERRA MADRE

Returning to Sierra Madre after an absence of several years, Mrs. May Barlow and her mother, Mrs. Emily Moyer, have established their home at 20½ West Grand View avenue. Celebrating her return to Sierra Madre Mrs. Barlow appeared as soloist at the Congregational Church Sunday morning.

MORE THAN A SCRAP

Now when our Government is calling for every ounce of "scrap," all Sierra Madre knows where there's about a ton of steel scrap still lying here useless and neglected. We mean the old bit of detached and long abandoned trackage near the P.E. terminal at Mountain Trail. Let's make Lee Shippey our contact man and see if he can't get something done about it.

Former Sierra Madre Girl Killed On Her Way To A Picnic

A young peoples outing Friday ended in tragedy for a former Sierra Madre family now living at El Paso when Betty Mai Spillar, 16-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Spillar, was killed in a crash between a train and the automobile in which she was riding.

With a group of young friends Miss Spillar had apparently set out for an evening of fun when their car was struck by the train. No further details of the accident were available here.

NAVY IS RECRUITING SEABEES HERE NOW

Application for enlistment in the "Seabees"—the Navy's World War II Construction Regiment—now are being accepted at the Pasadena recruiting station, YMCA building, 124 North Marengo avenue.

Prospective recruits should apply at once as the Seabees' recruiting quotas always are filled within a few days, the recruiter pointed out. He called attention to the fact that enlistments for general Navy service still are "wide open" and that they will continue to be open indefinitely.

Welcome Home!

HOME, to the American people, is a symbol of peace and freedom. Whenever you travel to near or distant parts, there is a feeling of security in knowing that you can return to a home with its comforts and conveniences, its peaceful family life.

How would you like to be welcomed home by the crashing of bombs, by pillars of smoke arising from the ruin of possessions for which you had worked and saved?

That is no fantastic dream. Anything can happen. That is why thousands of Union Pacific employees, resolved to retain their American freedom, are tirelessly working to help Uncle Sam. Troop trains—huge shipments of raw materials and armament—roll over "the Strategic Middle Route" in a never-ending procession. It's up to all of us to "keep 'em rolling." We must be victors—not victims.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of the Boys

The return of our "old-timers" to the fold will not be enough to fill the gaps in our ranks. The force of auxiliary firemen is far short of men. We are earnestly calling for volunteers to present themselves for training. Like all departments of Civilian Defense, the firemen need men that are willing to work and train. Once a fellow joins the fire department, he will never regret it. We can't offer any trips to the moon, but there is a possibility that at some time you may see stars. Everyone is on a par with the other guy at the firemen's meetings.

Those of our members who have been regular attendants at the firemen's annual conventions are still planning on the one to be held at Fresno this year. Among those who expect to go are George Norris, Joe Swanson and Milt Steinberger. If Milt is unable to leave his work this year, it will be the first convention he has missed in many years.

Victory Gardeners Turn To Chickens And Rabbits During Off Season

Having reached the in-between season for gardening most of the successful and serious Victory gardeners in town are plowing under their finished summer crops and are making the ground ready for winter plantings, while their less fortunate and hard working brothers are giving up altogether or are laying plans for more concentrated efforts.

Among the latter group are Dick Hawks and Joe Russell. Dick claims that his garden proved to be a liability rather than an asset and that after having planted a nickel's worth of radish seed he spent a considerable amount of money for fertilizer and water and ended up at the end of the season with two nickel bunches of radishes.

Mr. Russell's luck could be judged either better or worse according to the outlook. He harvested six carrots and 12 heads of lettuce which were all ready to be picked the same day.

Mrs. Gilla Bullock of E. Laurel avenue, was spurred on to greater things by Dame Nature who, recognizing the need for Victory Gardens, took it upon herself to start one. Mrs. Bullock buried some garbage early this spring and now has one of the finest banana squash vines in the community. The vine seems to have no intention of ceasing its growth and the squash keep getting larger and larger.

As for the serious gardeners, many of them are taking advantage of this between season lull to establish chicken yards and pens for rabbits as a side line to their fruit and vegetable produce. Clippings from their lawns and shrubs can be used as feed and in turn the fowls and animals will be ready for the dinner table along with the winter vegetables.

More Women Needed To Harvest Grapes

The American Women's Voluntary Service of which Mrs. Bob Hope is chairman for California is sending out another urgent call for women to assist with the grape harvest at Delano, near Bakersfield.

Mrs. Richard Temple, member of the famous early California family, who is chairman of the Pasadena-San Gabriel Valley area announces that although three bus loads of women have already been recruited from this area there is still a dearth of workers to harvest the crop.

Women are assured good living conditions and good wages, for pleasant work. Those interested are asked to apply either at AWVS headquarters, 1030 E. Green St., or at the United States Employment Service at 745 E. Green street, Pasadena.

U. S. S. Kearny Carries Blood Plasma to War

When the U. S. Destroyer Kearny was torpedoed in the North Atlantic October 16, bringing the United States to the brink of war, Red Cross blood plasma was flown to the scene to save the life of Chief Boatswain's Mate Leonard Frontakowski. Ready for service once more, the Kearny carries its own supply of Red Cross plasma. Transfusions, similar to the one being administered in the picture at right, can be given on board ship during the heat of battle.

HOW WILL CALIFORNIA COPE WITH CRITICAL PROBLEMS AFTER THE WAR? ECONOMIST ASKS

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

Even under the tremendous stress of all-out war production—with daily headaches piling up from labor shortages, tire shortages, equipment shortages, inflation and rationing—there are many thoughtful men and women in California who are taking time out from their immediate difficulties to consider how this State can plan ahead to cope with the critical problems which are certain to come with the post-war period.

When the war industries suddenly shut down; when the present artificial demand for American produce abruptly ends; when armies are disbanded and troops return to civilized life—WHAT THEN?

The economic dislocations of that period, in all likelihood, will surpass anything which this State or Nation has ever experienced. The complex problems born of that sudden need for transition to a peace-time economy will be much greater and graver than the problems of the reconstruction period after the Civil War, or after World War I.

How California fares in that dangerous period, however, will depend, in this writer's opinion, not alone on our ability to wrestle with the problem of economics, but on our ability to give and take and behave like rational human beings. We shall be confronted with some knotty problems in human relations. But if we learn to live together and like it—if the city man, working in an industrial plant, has some insight into the difficulties of the rural man, who makes his living tilling the soil, and if agriculture and industry learn that they are mutually dependent, one on the other—then we can tackle the economic problems, confident of the outcome, no matter how severe dislocations may be.

California, again last year, had the biggest cash farm income of any State in the Nation; it held its dominant position in agriculture—but it also acquired a new dominance as an industrial State, with its shipyards and aircraft factories and its manufacturing plants doubling and trebling their production.

From all indications California will end the war not only as the No. 1 Farm State of the Nation, but also as the No. 1 Industrial State—an enviable position, and one promising a great and prosperous future, if the gains made in war-time can be consolidated and maintained.

But it is also a position which can result in bitter labor strife, and in disastrous wrangling between urban and rural areas for economic and political advantage, if labor and management work at cross-purposes, and if the metropolitan areas fail to recognize that their future is inevitably linked with that of the rural districts.

After the last World War, agriculture was plunged into a disastrous depression and suffered the consequences of it for many years while business was booming in the cities—and urban leaders, unmindful of the fact that their destiny was linked with that of their back-country, blissfully went their way, giving little thought or effort to the plight of the farming industry. Finally, the creeping paralysis of that depression swept the great cities of America; breadlines formed; millions walked the street hunting desperately for jobs—and the Nation as a whole suffered from the backlash of the economic upheaval which had been causing untold suffering in rural areas for years past.

This column is not written with any thought of recrimination. It is written, rather, in the hope that we can profit from bygone mistakes—and that all Californians will realize, in the post-war emergency, that no section of the State, and no segment of the community, can be a law unto itself without courting disaster.

If California is to come through the war and the post-war period to follow ready to climb economic mountains and perform miracles—which will certainly be needed—then all California needs to learn now that the problems of human relations are as important as the problems of economics.

— and to the kind of war-time Vita-Menus your family needs

THESE VITA-MENUS are simply chock-a-block with the strength-giving food elements your family needs. They are well-balanced, nutritionally correct—and all planned for you by the Home Service dept. of your gas company.

CLIP THEM—SHOP WITH THEM. And then, when you cook, don't forget to observe the simple vitamin-saving rules of controlled gas cooking.

Save Vitamins and Minerals with CONTROLLED GAS COOKING!

FOR MEATS: Roast at low temperature. This reduces shrinkage as much as 20% and helps meats retain vitamin-rich juices and minerals. Broiling, as a rule, is preferable to frying, to retain vitamins.

FOR VEGETABLES: Use very little water. When water is essential, have it boiling first. Set gas flame to simmer heat and cook for the shortest time possible, avoiding unnecessary stirring and keeping utensil tightly covered. Don't put in baking soda to brighten vegetables. And remember—keep the liquids for use in soups and sauces.

LAND-BASED AVIATION NEEDED TO WIN THE WAR, SAYS DE SEVERSKY

HOW are we going to win the war? While there is no question in our minds that we are going to win there is tremendous difference of opinion among the military and naval leaders of how it is to be won.

Probably no authority in recent months has created such a furor as has Major Alexander P. de Seversky in his best-seller, "Victory Through Air Power."

In the September issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Major de Seversky again presents his views and charges flatly that "Land-Based Aviation Will Win the War."

Pointing out that Congress has just approved the building of new aircraft carriers, Major de Seversky says, "The aircraft carrier happens to be the most vulnerable vessel afloat. It is doomed as soon as it ventures within the striking radius of land-based aviation."

Continuing, the famous aviator says, "In this war bitter experience has taught us the importance of dispersing airplanes and facilities. We no longer huddle planes and repair shops and supplies in one spot for the convenience of enemy sky raiders. Instead, we scatter them over a large area. But the carrier defies this principle of dispersion. On the contrary, it packs a maximum of aircraft and other equipment in a minimum of space. As a result, it is the answer to a bombardier's dream—a concentrated target."

"If any doubt of the futility of carriers in offensive operations remained, it should have been wiped out by the events of Coral Sea and Midway. Those engagements were played up as 'sea battles' in the official communiques, but they were nothing of the sort. The naval forces never even came into contact. Those were sea battles only in the sense that aviation fought over the sea and that navies provided the targets. Practically all the aircraft carriers mixed up in the operations were sunk or crippled. We lost the Lexington and the Japs lost at least four, perhaps five, of their carriers. The tragic helplessness of this sort of vessel—exposed to assault horizontally, above and below—was exhibited as if in a laboratory experiment."

"The fact is that the epoch of naval offensives is ended. War has resolved into a struggle for mastery of the skies. Air power has taken the lead. Surface forces are either reduced to auxiliaries or entirely immobilized until the issue of who controls the air is decided. Until we take this fact to heart, we shall blunder from disaster to disaster. We must recognize that there has been a revolution in war-making due to the advent of the air-weapon. None of our traditional strategy applies, because it was a two-dimensional strategy, whereas air power has ranked warfare into the third dimension."

"We can and we will win this war—provided we face the fact that this is primarily an aerial war and proceed to develop the strategy and the aircraft to win it. In the final analysis, that means long-range, hard-hitting aviation based on land. It means air power capable of carrying an offensive across water directly to the source of the enemy's power—to his home land."

"By reversing the process, by using powerful land-based aviation, we can conceivably turn back recent Pacific history and retrieve the lost territories, island by island. That, we may judge from the kind of preparations now under way, is what United Nations strategy proposes to do."

"The logic of these elementary truths must be hammered home until our nation realizes that our war effort must be revised, with aviation as its decisive element. Only then will we begin to channel the main part of our national wealth and skills, labor power and materials, to the creation of an irresistible force of land-based air power."

"The waste involved in a construction program on irrelevant types of weapons would not be serious if we could afford it. But we can't. We are reaching the point of industrial saturation when we no longer can indulge in the extravagance of building anything and everything that comes to mind. We must concentrate on the weapons essential for direct offensive. That means, in the first place, long-range, land-based aviation."

Former Local School Teacher Headed For Commission In The Air Force

Miami, Florida, can't compete with Southern California in the opinion of David Larsen, who now in training at a Miami Beach Army Camp, says he is still possessed with a nostalgic longing for the southland.

Corporal Larsen, former member of the Sierra Madre Grammar School teaching staff, resigned his position to go into the Army and having completed preliminary training at the Salinas Air base, has been admitted as an officer candidate to the Air Forces Officer Candidate School at Miami Beach. After successfully completing an intensive 12 weeks course of instruction there, Corp. Larsen will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the air force.

More than 25 specialized courses in administrative, personnel and supply duties are given at the school. Upon graduation officers are assigned to duty in one of these departments, thus relieving trained pilots from such duties and allowing them to devote their full time to flying.

Larsen is the son of Mrs. Anna A. Larsen, of Montalva, Ventura County.

way September 5 in Duarte following a long illness. Rev. Alex Lyal officiated, and entombment was in Pasadena Mausoleum.

Mr. MacWhorter, who had a wide circle of Sierra Madre friends, was a former credit association solicitor, and had lived in California for 17 years. Since his illness Mrs. MacWhorter has made her home here with Miss Marjorie Adams of 625 Auburn avenue. Grant Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

With Rev. Leo Schiebel, C.P., officiating, funeral services were conducted at St. Rita's Shrine Wednesday morning for Juan Valasquez, Jr., of 199 Grove St. The baby who was 15 days old passed away Sept. 7 at a Pasadena hospital. Interment was in Sierra Madre cemetery.

Besides his parents the baby is survived by two brothers, Martin and Theodore; and two sisters, Sofia and Eloisa. Grant Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

A.L.A. Activities

Interesting convention reports were given by the delegates and alternates at our last meeting held at the home of President Miller. The official song of the convention was "The Ramparts We Watched" by Lieut. Commander Beecher. All Units were urged to learn this new patriotic song and to sing it at their meetings. Parliamentarian Grace Caukin asked for a month's leave of absence while she visits her daughter, Mrs. Pierson Miller, and other relatives in the North. The meeting was followed by a delicious pot-luck supper.

Past President Helene Smith and her husband came down from Santa Barbara to attend the convention and spent the weekend as guests of Sylvia Colbert.

Our next meeting will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the home of Lotta Hopper, North Auburn avenue. A 6 o'clock pot-luck supper will be served in her garden.

Maybelle C. Barker, Press-Chmn.
